November 25, 2024

Company earns Gold for its NCQA-accredited disease management and population health capabilities, evidence-based digital therapeutics, and patient education content

ATLANTA, Nov. 25, 2024 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Sharecare, the health tech company that helps to improve care quality, drive better outcomes, and lower costs across the healthcare ecosystem, today announced it has won 17 Digital Health Awards in the Health Information Resource Center's Fall 2024 competition. Now in its 26th year, the semiannual Digital Health Awards honor the best online and virtual health resources for both consumers and professionals.

"At Sharecare, our mission is to empower every individual to take control of their health and well-being, no matter where they are in their journey," said Dawn Whaley, president and chief marketing officer at Sharecare. "From our flagship platform and evidence-based programs to our engaging content and mobile apps, these 17 Digital Health Awards are reflective of our team's commitment to deliver innovative solutions on behalf of employers, health plans, and life sciences companies to inspire healthier lives in the populations they serve."

Sharecare earned five Gold awards in the Fall 2024 Digital Health Awards, with its flagship health navigation platform for large employers and commercial health plans receiving top honors in the disease management and population health management category. The company also secured Gold for its proprietary digital therapeutic for tobacco cessation; Facebook and YouTube channels; and curated patient education tool for multiple sclerosis. Complementing these achievements, Sharecare's 12 additional awards honored various content initiatives and proprietary mobile apps, including its CDC-approved diabetes prevention and weight loss program.

Proof positive of Sharecare's commitment to quality, all of the company's proprietary content and programs adhere to NCQA guidelines, which are intended to help organizations achieve the highest level of performance possible and create an environment of continuous improvement and quality enhancement. In fact, Sharecare bears the distinction of being only one of three companies to hold the following three-year NCQA Accreditations simultaneously: 1) Case Management for the most complex members; 2) Population Health for asthma, chronic kidney disease (CKD), chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), congestive heart failure (CHF), coronary artery disease (CAD), diabetes, and hypertension; and 3) Wellness and Health Promotion for its lifestyle management interventions.
